CELEBRATED ENGLISH AUTHORS. - It is a matter of common notoriety that Miss Braddon the novelist is the mistress of Maxwell, her publisher; and it is also known that Miss Evans, the authoress of "Romolo and Adam" Bede," is living in unholy bonds with Lewes, the Comptist philosopher. When Ruskin's wile left him for Mallais the artist, it did not prevent that eloquent writer from subsequently warmly praising the pictures of the successful rival to his wife's affections, and when Ruskin lectures, Mrs. Ruskin and her paramour are frequently seen in the audience applauding the deserted husband. - N. Y. World.

SOLD. - An individual, rejoicing in the most euphonious and high-sounding soubriquet of Col. Ayres, appeared on Main street last Saturday, and (with the appearance of a gentletleman who has been driving around during the summer) offered at a low price his buggy and horse. Captain John L. Cochran became the purchaser. Yesterday another actor appeared on the scene, in the shape of a livery stable-keeper of Richmond, and in his joy at the recovery of a stolen horse and buggy prained his ankle in rushing to the embrace of his iron-gray. - Charlottesville Chron.

BELIEVING. - It is related of Napoleon that when Marshal Duroc, an avowed infidel, was once telling a very improbable story, giving his opinion that it was true, the Emperor quietly remarked: "There are some men who are capable of believing everything but the Bible." This remark finds abundant illustration in every age. There are men all about us at the present day who tell us they cannot believe in the Bible; but their capacities for believing everything which seems to oppose the Bible are enormous.
